Last Illness of Princess Kaiulani---Stevenson's Lines---Biographical Sketch of the Young Lady.

AT THE THRESHHOLD OF

TO PRINCESS KAIULANI. (Robert Louis Stevenson.)

Forth from her land to mine she goes, The Island maid, the Island rose, Light of heart and bright of face The daughter of a double race. Her Islands here in Southern sun, Shall mourn their Kalulani gone, And I in her dear banyan shade, Look vainly for my little maid. But our Scots' islands far away Shall glitter with unwonted day, And cast for once their tempests by To smile in Kaiulani's eye.

KAWAIAHAO CHURCH. Hours before the time appointed for the commencement of the burial services of the late Princess Kaiulani the crowd began to make its way toward the historic Kawaiahao church. The showers of the preceding night and the cers did yeoman service toward keepearly morning had given way before a glorious burst of sunshine. There was no longer any fear of postponement and the people came accordingly.

At about 10 o'clock the people commenced to come, although that was four hours before the time appointed for the services to begin. It was a picturesque scene to look upon. From the steps of the church sired to see all of the vast assembly.

Little separate groups placed themselves in various places and discussed the funerals of the past, and dwelt upon the virtues of the dead chiefers Every vantage point from where a good view of the procession could be obtained was occupied. The operahouse roof and the veranda were covered until the police ordered the people the Executive grounds for hours in hopes of catching a good view of the procession which was to come.

In the church yard and at the entrance of the gates the crowds were greatest. Around about the church steps before the doors were opened, there was a perfect mass of humanity. Suddenly the doors were opened, and, like a huge ocean wave, the mass surged up the steps and through the portals.

But with all the overwhelming crowd, never for an instant did the people in charge lose their wits. A certain number would be allowed to pass inside the church, and then the doors would be closed for an instant while those inside were being seated. Thus with perfect ease and without commotion the crowd was seated. In this onnection the ushers deserve cre

Outside upon the streets and in the church yard the handling of the throng was more difficult. Nearly everybody desired to be in the front rank so as to gain a full view of the procession. This resulted in the people being constantly pushed right in the path of the travel, blocking the carriage way. Police offiing the roads clear.

During this time the wailing and, chanting was hardly in evidence at all only once in a while some old native who could stand the tension no longer would break forth in a prolonged wail or chant.

THE GATHERING WITHIN

THE HOUSE OF WORSHIP.

The interior of Kawaishao church presented pretty much the same appearance as on Saturday. The decorations were unaitered, the only changes being in additional floral tributes.

While the crowds were gathering in the yard and in the streets about the church, there was considerable activfty inside on the part of those who were making the preparations for the services that were scheduled for 2 o'clock. The floral offerings kept coming in until the last moment. There were crowns of ilima, crosses of carnations, baskets of violets and asters and streamers of maile. These were placed in position as fast as received.

The twelve kahili wavers, clothed with their feather capes, never once faitered in their work. The stillness and the regularity in which this was done, aroused an unusual interest.

At a few minutes past 1 o'clock the native people grouped about the main doorway of Kawaiahao, were given admission to the balcony. The rapidity with which every available seat was taken and the aisles and hallway became congested, was wonderful. When several hundred were let in, it was found necessary to check the crowd.

Hardly had the gallery been filled when the invited guests began to arrive. They were met by Maj. Geo. C. Potter, of the President's staff, on the landing of the big steps leading to the main entrance of the church. Rev. H. H. Parker gave his address in Hawaiian. The following is a substantial translation of his remarks:

The late Princess Kaiulani was greatly beloved and respected by all who knew her. Her personal attractions were many and notable. She had a pleasant face, a sympathetic voice and was gracions to all. The attributes and qualities of mind were rich, she having been born with a fine mentality and having had the best advantages for the cultivation of the mind. She was a scholar of many accomplishments, was a musician, a painter and a most entertaining conversationalist in several languages. She dearly loved all her own people and was friendly to the worthy foreigners. Death is no respector of persons. It cuts the most sacred ties. It pays no beed to station or age. Princess Kalulani nad her full measure of sorrow. She was left motherless at a tender age. She was removed to amongst strangers and educated abroad. In contempiation she always had high hopes and splendid ambition with relation to her career amongst her people. Those hopes vanished all at once like when the sunlight seemingly leaves when a black and heavy cloud comes out of the mountains. She commanded the highest respect by the attitude which she assumed when these severe disappointments came. But It is grand to think of her as looking to the future instead of grieving and idling over the past.

I want to add my flower to her wreath, the same as I am sure does every parent and every child in Hawall pel. Love is a flower transplanted from Heaven and all who knew Kajulani kwad her There is a lesson in the life and death of this lovely young woman. Life here is fragmentary, broken. incomplete. It is the lot of all to meet with disappointments and reverses and to fail to realize fond: hopes or noble ideals. For that reason all should look to another life. In the long ago a man came to this world from Heaven and told us that the things which had been broken here would be mended in the hereafter, that the opportunities could be worked out satisfactorily. She has gone to that haven. In your lives follow her example. Do not waste time upon the past, but look and struggle onward and upward.

Some little time was occupied in assigning the large feather, and flower kahilis and the putting on of feather capes by the bearers. Messrs. Parker and Boyd attended to these details. When these preparations had been made the kahili bearers made the start. The white casket, containing all that was mortal of Kaiulani and laden with peautiful flowers, was tenderly borne out of the church to the hearse in waiting at the foot of the stone steps. Soft, sweet strains of "Home, Sweet Home" came from the organ while this was being done. The heart-broken father and the grief-stricken friends pressed closely after. Then the mass of people hurried out of the church.

RECEIPT OF THE NEWS

OF THE UNEXPECTED DEATH. Last Monday morning the Advertiser gave sad news to the people of Honolulu. The Princess Kaiulani was dead. One born to a lofty station, respected and honored on account of position and attainments, and generally beloved for her gracious disposition and amiable character, had passed away.

Throughout the city the sorrow was general and sincere. Many among the ing H. B. M. S. Blonde. foreigners had known the Princess from her earliest childhood. They had met her in pleasant social intercourse, had worked with her in the cause of religion and charity, had respected and honored her for years. All knew her by reputation, and nearly all had frequently seen ser. But to the natives hopes and the love of an affectionate race had centered upon her, and now she was gone. In the bright bloom of early youth, when life seems so fair and so precious so full of hope for the future—and before it is embittered by regrets for the past-her earthly work bad ended and she had been summoned to come up higher.

Regret for the dead was mingled with sympathy for the living-for the lone-At the freed and foot of the bier were which, upon the royal estalation, relating the marks of posed the remains.

Many messages tearful in tone were received by the father.

The sorrowful tidings were the principal topic of conversation among all classes and in every part of the city. Many were the stories told of the graciousness of the one who had been the hope of the Hawaiians and the pride of the whole nation. # Fire Month, Formore, Formore, 500 What it Did and What it Failed to Do. No Cable--- No New Laws for Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Having inaugurated, waged and successfully concluded a war, the effect of which will be impressed upon American history for all time, the Fifty-fifth Congress-has passed. Called into extraordinary session by what was almost the first official act of President McKinley, it enacted the Dingley law; after three months' recess,it met squarely the Cuban crisis, and after ninety days' work has laid the legislative foundation for the amalgamation of the various elements brought forward as the result of the recent brilliant feats at arms.

To enumerate the accomplishments of this Congress would necessitate the discussion of every phase of national policy. While few lines have been opened the measures passed will lead to the speedy and successful settlement of the new problems which confront America. Its legacy to the Flity-sixth Congress. is one which may well engage the brightest and most patriotic men in the country, and they will find their way well paved by the laws of the now deceased national legislature.

The closing of the Fifty-fifth Congress was most remarkable in the dominance of the House of Representatives. Upon but one question of great moment did the House recede in those final conferences during which the real work of the budgets is done. Committee after committee entered the Senate chamber and reported either disagreement or that the House had refused to give way upon some point upon which the Senate had declared itself with practical unanimity. It was on very simplematters that the House finally gave way to the Senate.

Speaker Reed, for it is certain that even conference committees are dominated by this strong personality, had compelled the Senate to take his view upon the Nicaragua canal, and had, in spite of the President's forcible message, killed the Pacific cable.

Except for these differences between the two bodies the closing of the session was marked by little of moment. The feature, of course, was the unsuccessful filibuster inaugurated by the Middle West Senators in their endeavor to force into the river and harbor bill the provision for irrigation reservoirs at at the head of the Missouri river and for further surveys in the Western States. For seven hours the bill was held up, and at no time was there an agreement in eight until at length the Westerners won their record vote and sent the bill back to conference. They could hope for no more, and although, to the astonishment of every one, yet with grace, did they abandon the fight and the bill was allowed to go through, thus removing all danger of failure of any of the appropriation measures.

Then, after all differences had been adjusted to the greater or less satisfaction of the members interested, came the scenes marking the adjournment. In the House there was more of patriotic fervor than usual.

On the House side, where there is less of dignity than in the upper branch, the members thronged the lobbles and cloakrooms, singing and telling stories to while away the weary hours of waiting upon the conferences.

There have been fewer re-elections of Senators than usual this year, so there were more retirements into private life when Vice-President Hobart declared the session adjourned without day. Immediately was there a thronging of hold-over Senators about the more popular of retiring ones, and Senators White of California, Gray of Delaware, Mitchell of Wisconsin and Allen of Nebraska were surrounded, their hands shaken and every form of manly affection and esteem shown.

The project for the construction of a canal across the isthmus of Nicaragua made progress to the extent that a provision was attached to the river and harbor appropriation, providing for a very complete inquiry into the matter. The addition of a provision to the army appropriation, bill forbidding the grant of property franchises in Cuba was also an important legislative act.

orable attention in the closing days were those providing a Pa- $\Leftrightarrow \Leftrightarrow$ cific cable, for a Government armor plant, for an anti-scalping law, for an eight-hour law and for a Government for Hawaii.

The mavy personnel bill completely reorganizes the navy, and is the consummation of years of earnest effort by the Navy Department. The original army bill was intended to meet the same want for the army supplied to the nevy by the personnel bill, but it failed, and the present bill is considered defective in that it is only a temporary measure. It, however, increases the the army to 100,000 men and provides for the retention of this number until 1901. The omnibus claims bill provides for the settlement of several hundred claims, some of which are almost a hundred years old. The Alaskan code also meets a long-felt want in supplying a system of laws to this Northwest Terri-

T. McCants Stewart Carries Away a Land Case.

T. McCants Stewart, the new attorney who has settled himself in a home here and who is now pretty well known to the public of Honolulu, was prominent in the recent session of the Fifth Circuit court on Kanai, Judge Hardy presiding. Mr. Stewart was sole | counsel for defense in the ejectment case of the Kolos Sugar Company vs. William Brown and Lukia Nakapahu. The opposing legal talent consisted of M. F. Prosser of Kanai and J. L. Kaulokou of this city. The company tried to show tenancy and the defandants claimed the land by adverse possession. There was a battle before the bench of which all who attended are talking yet, with Mr. Stewart remarkably ac-

TROOPS FOR HONOLULU.

WASHINGTON: March 4 .- It has been decided at the War Department not to send the one field officer and four companies of the Twenty-fourth Infantry at Forts Douglas and Russell to Honolulu for the present, as proposed in yesterday's orders. The probability is that some other troops not yet selected will be sent to the Island.

Dr. Maxwell's Views.

Dr. Walter Maxwell returned on Sunday from a trip around the northerly end of this island. He visited the looks well. He was especially pleased with the Watsine plantation, and is quite sure it will become a most valuable property. The work on it is developing with great rapidity. He says DORIC that few people realize the value of Mr. Dillingham's work in extending the railroad. It will bring into use many hundreds of scree of land on which SHEER CADE I'MY be grown by farmers and transported to the mills at Kabuku and Weining. The prospects in that part of the island are excellent.

How important the possession of suc. Perceptions is in this particular case 1 vay be judged from a consideration of the friand population. An American would probably have some difficulty a ven with those persons of American a execut who have been brought up of the Islands and fashioned to a greater or less extent by their environment, and a sympathetic understanting of the native Hawaiians would be ampossible to him. Yet these latter annis be treated with the greatest tect and patience unless they are to become a repreach to us. Their halpits and customs, their thoughts and feelings, must be consulted by agents who know them thoroughly.

Complications might arise also in connecticut with the Chinese and Jananese. In order that no injustice may be done these reople it is necessary that the representative of this Government on the ground should be perfectly informed of their status in the past as well as in the present, industrially and socially, and realize all the whys and wherefores. # BLUE FLAME OIL STOVE.

A sort of dread may prevail among housewives that perhaps these stoves might explode, but we can honestly say that they are perfectly safe in every home. To endorse our statement just have a talk with any insurance agent; he will tell you at once that he would rather insure a home where these stoves are used than issue a policy on a home where different stoves are used. You wonder why the Blue Flame stove should be better than any other. We'll tell you. In this country the matter of fuel is a very large item of expense. As you have turned over a new leaf since the New Year and intend economizing where you never thought of before, you may begin on your coal and wood. It is a positive fact that the "BLUE FLAME" uses only about one-half the quantity of fuel any other stove does. Another great advantage is that there is no smoke or smell.

These stoves are placed on rollers and are so light they can be easily moved about. We have them in two sizes, one with two burners with oven attached and the other with three burners with oven. (The price of these stoves is $16, $22.50 and $25.00). We can't tell you all about them; the best thing to do is to come and look at

The matter for consideration, therefore, is not the power of Congress, but its intention. Congress provided that the existing government of the Hawalian Islands should continue, and the municipal legislation not inconsistent with the Constitution or laws of the United States should remain in force. Congress then used this language, which requires construction:

"There shall be no further immigra-On October 21, 1898, in response to tion of Chinese into the Hawalian shall be allowed to enter the United "The restrictions placed by our States from the Hawaiian Islands.

provide there shall be "no further immigration," is to recognize there has been immigration; and to enact that "no Chinese, by reason of anything depart with the intention of returning. * domicile in the Islands and are residing there now. In other words, Congress legislated in view of the fact that the immigration of Chinese into the Hawaiian Islands had proceeded on lines distinct from those which obtain in the United States. While the resolution provides that the Islands shall be "annexed as a part of the territory of the United States," it also Chinese, the Islands are not to be deemed a part of the United States. WITH IT THE RIGHT TO PASS INTO ANY PART OF * THE UNITED STATES. With * respect to Chinese domiciled in * the Hawaiian Islands at the * time of annexation, a distinct provision is made. Their right to be and remain in the Islands is not denied. The restriction is upon any "further" immigration. But while those rightfully in the Islands at the time of annexation are recognized as entitled to remain there, thère is an explicit provision denying * their right on that account to come into the United States.

> "I call attention to these things for the purpose of pointing out that it was not the intention of Congress, by this clause, to extend the Chinese exclusion SUFFERED FOR FOURTEEN TEARS laws of this country in toto to the islands. "This case recognizes that Chinese who become domiciled in this country acquire certain rights with which no unjust interference is to be presumed A provision directed in terms to all ninese about to come into the unite States was therefore construed so as not to apply to Chinese returning to the United States, although, in fact, a person cannot return to the United States without coming into this country. In other words, an alien resident is not an alien immigrant. Under our alien immigration acts it has been held that an alien who has resided in this country without becoming naturalized and who departs with the intention of returning, is not to be deemed an immigrant upon his return, although he was an allen immigrant when he first entered the country. (51 F. R., 275; 68 F. R.,

"Applying this wholesome dectrine to the case submitted, the Chinese who, under the former Government of the Hawailan Islands, became domiciled in the Islands, acquired certain rights, among which was the right to leave the Islands for a temporary purpose and return. It is not to be presumed that Congress, which recognizes the right of such Chinese to be and remain in the Islands, intended to interfere with the incidental right of returning to the Islands after a temporary absence. Chinese laborers have been for years absolutely prohibited from coming into the United States; yet all the time we have permitted and now permit Chinese laborers lawfully within the United States to leave this country for a temporary purpose and return.

"Accordingly, in view of the manifest injustice of interfering with a right incidental to lawful residence in the Islands, the words 'no further immigration' should be construed so as to apply only to actual additional immigration into the Islands, namely, the coming of Chinese into the Islands for the first time after annexation and not to the return to the Islands of Chinese who have a lawful residence there and are simply exercising the recognized right of returning after a temporary absence to their business and their

MAUI, March 11.—One of the greatest rain storms in the meteorological records of Maul occurred during Sunday, the 5th. As no heavy wind accompanied the rainfall, the following statistics will tell the story: During the twenty-four hours 61/2 inches fell at Haleakala Ranch, Makawao; 91/2 inches fell at Makawao Post Office; 101/2 inches fell at Grove Ranch; 91/4 inches fell at Paia Plantation; .72 inch fell at Kealahou, Kula; 101/2 inches fell at Hamakuspoko; 10% inchés fell at Walkapu; 10% inches fell at Wainee; 12% inches fell at Huelo. In the Huelo region the Spreckels and Haiku ditches were badly washed out, and the upper stratum of soil was carried away from the roads which crossed guiches.

In Walluku, which is said to have had a greater rainfall than either. Waikapu or Waihee, $3000 or $4000 damage was done to flumes, ditches, cane fields, etc.

A new citch in Iao valley was badly damaged. The mill was obliged to shut down for two days and it was three days before an ample supply of water Koolaw. could be obtained through the repair of broken water courses.

Quite a number of taro patches were filled with soil and debris. The Waihee bridge, a new one, was
